The Happy

Annette Carson | The Growing Place

Gardener

Scent and flavor are two senses that we all can relate to when it comes to food and gardens. Do you use herbs for culinary or ornamental use? Herbs can easily be grown in containers or raised beds and make for a fun activity to do with kids and kids at heart.

Edible & Decorative Herbs

If you are growing herbs to use in cooking and baking, grow the herbs that normally flavor the foods you enjoy eating. Thyme is a perennial herb invaluable for flavoring meats, soups, stews and other dishes. One of the most popular culinary herbs is basil. In Illinois, it is grown as an annual and requires full sun. Choose the basil variety that best suits your needs, making tea or adding to dressings, sauces, breads, meats, pestos, herbed oils and butters. Fresh mint will make your beverages, salads, and desserts sought after by family and friends.

Know that many culinary herbs are also ornamental, and can mix in well with other annuals and perennials. Herbs add texture to a container garden or fragrantly tower over a fairy garden. They are deer and rabbit resistant, making them useful when planted with annuals and perennials in a border or container design.

If growing herbs for decorative purposes only, choose ones that flower, are fragrant, or provide the height, color, shape, and texture you want to see in your garden. A 2' fragrant, purple blooming Scented Geranium Citronella in a patio container may help repel insects. Lavender makes beautiful, aromatic bedding that attracts butterflies and hummingbirds. Sage foliage comes in silver, purple, and variegated, offering not only culinary uses but a great textured addition to container designs or as a border plant.

Indoor & Outdoor Herbs

When growing herbs indoors, they must be near a sunny window. Provide good drainage and pinch back tips regularly. A few choices for indoor herbs are chives, basil, lemon balm, parsley, mints, and chervil. Herbs grow best outside in full sun with lightly fertilized, good draining, average soil. Keep the garden clipped, harvesting in late morning after the dew has evaporated.

The Growing Place grows 120 varieties of herbs onsite. The edible herbs are put out on the tables alphabetically by their common name. They are grown naturally and non-GMO in The Growing Place greenhouse, using only products approved for organic growing. To be able to grow something is an opportunity for making memories. Share and make recipes, cut for creative arrangements, or sit beside as an attractive conversation piece.

Recipes with Fresh Herbs

Insalata Caprese: Slice ripe tomatoes and fresh mozzarella cheese. Tear a handful of fresh basil, mix together with a little olive oil and balsamic vinegar, salt, and pepper.

Chive Dip for Crackers: Mix 1 Tbsp. of chopped chives and 1 Tbsp. of fresh dill (optional) to 8 oz. cream cheese.

Parsley Sauce for Pasta or Vegetables: Use 2 cups fresh chopped parsley/mixed herbs to 1 cup olive oil. Let steep for 15 minutes then toss with your pasta or vegetables, fresh or cooked.

Shish-kabob: Soak rosemary stems (R. officinalis have the straightest and longest stems) in water for 10-15 minutes. Use the stems as skewers for meat and vegetable shish-kabobs and grill as usual.

STORM REPAIR & ROOFING SCAMS

ollowing thunderstorms, tornadoes and windstorms, scammers often move quickly into communities to take advantage of homeowners, pressuring them to make quick decisions about repairs. Roofing repairs are their number one target.

Residents should be cautious about individuals soliciting door-to-door or random phone calls offering to assess your roofing damage. Don't view your insurance carrier as your adversary, but as a partner in getting legitimate repairs done and completed by competent professionals.

If you are suspicious about a contractor you can call the Illinois Attorney Generals Consumer Fraud Hotline 1-800-386-0618.

- Be wary of contractors who go door-to-door to offer repair services. Ask for recommendations from people you know and trust and, whenever possible, use established local contractors.
- Visit the Better Business Bureau's Central Illinois or Chicago websites to see if a business is a member and whether any complaints have been lodged against it.
- Even if there is a need to act quickly, shop around. Get written estimates from multiple contractors, and don't be rushed into a deal.
- Get all of the terms of a contract in writing, and obtain a copy of the signed contract
- Never make full payment until all the work has been completed to your satisfaction.
- Never pay in cash.
- Be aware that you have the right to cancel a contract within three business days if you signed it based on the contractor's visit to your home.
- In the case of disaster repair, you have an additional right to cancel. If your insurance carrier denies coverage, you have the right to cancel the contract within five days of when your insurance carrier denies your coverage.
- Ask to see required state and local permits and licenses. Insurance adjusters and roofers must be licensed by state agencies. If the contractor does not have a required license, or if the name on the license doesn't match the name on the contractor's business card or truck, that should raise a red flag. Please visit the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation's website to search licenses. Contact the Department of Insurance at 866-445-5364 to verify that the public adjuster is licensed and in good standing.

The Illinois Home Repair and Remodeling Act requires contractors to provide customers with written contracts for any repair or remodeling work costing more than $1,000. A contract must be signed by both the customer and the contractor. The law also requires contractors to carry at least the minimum amounts of insurance for property damage, bodily injury and improper home repair. Contractors also must provide consumers with an informational pamphlet entitled "Home Repair and Construction: Know Your Rights."

n approaching cloud of debris can often signal an oncoming tornado, even if a funnel is not visible. Before a tornado hits, the wind may die down and the air may become very still.

You often hear that, if caught in the path of a tornado while driving, you should get out and lie in a ditch. That would be better than staying in the car. But getting in a ditch should be a last-ditch attempt to survive the storm. If tornados are predicted for your area, avoid driving if at all possible and remain near a sturdy building.

Never shelter under an overpass. You will die or sustain severe injuries. There are no handholds in an overpass. The wind becomes stronger underneath and can fill the space with deadly flying debris.

Never stop under an overpass. You will prevent people on the road from getting to shelter and you will have no extra protection yourself.

Have disaster supplies ready. You'll need a flashlight and extra batteries when the power goes out, plus warm clothing and rain-proof clothing.

Emergency food and water and a nonelectric can opener, as well as medicines, cash, credit cards and sturdy shoes. Take your cell phone into your shelter, but don't expect it to work after the storm.

In case family members are separated, ask an out-of-town relative or friend to be a contact. Everyone in the family should know the contact's phone number.

About 75 percent of Americans live in areas that experience tornadoes, flooding, hurricanes, earthquakes or hail, according to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

Help Keep Penncross Knoll's Trees Trimmed & Landscaped

TRIM YOUR TREES... FREE CURBSIDE BRUSH PICKUP

With Naperville's annual FREE CURBSIDE BRUSH PICKUP scheduled to begin May 10, area homeowners now have the opportunity to take a critical look at their property and do some maintenance on their shrubs and tree canopy.

This is also a good time to ensure that your trees overhanging the public right-of-way (streets and sidewalks) comply with the City of Naperville recommendations of a minimum of 12 to 14 feet clearance on the street side and 8 to 12 feet on the side of the sidewalk (a larger range on the sidewalk side for both clearance and to balance the tree out once trimmed). Failure to comply for trees overhanging the street may very well lead to an unexpected "trimming" by the garbage truck as it makes its weekly rounds.

Tips on Tree Trimming

Making Proper Pruning Cuts

Pruning cuts should be made just outside the branch collar. The branch collar contains trunk or parent branch tissue and should not be damaged or removed. If the trunk collar has grown out on a dead limb to be removed, make the cut just beyond the collar. Do not cut the collar. If a large limb is to be removed, its weight should first be reduced. This is done by making an undercut about 12 to 18 inches from the limb's point of attachment. Make a second cut from the top, directly above or a few inches farther out on the limb. Doing so removes the limb, leaving the 12- to 18-inch stub. Remove the stub by cutting back to the branch collar. This technique reduces the possibility of tearing the bark.

How Much Should Be Pruned?

The amount of live tissue that should be removed depends on the tree's size, species, and age, as well as the pruning objectives. Younger trees tolerate the removal of a higher percentage of living tissue better than mature trees do. Generally, no more than 25% of the crown should be removed at once, and less for mature trees. Removing even a single, largediameter limb can result in significant canopy loss and can create a wound that the tree may not be able to close. Care should be taken to achieve pruning objectives while minimizing live branch loss and wound size. Particularly for young trees, small branches can be cut easily with hand pruners. Scissor-type or bypassblade hand pruners are preferred over the anvil type as they make cleaner, more accurate cuts. Cuts larger than one-half inch in diameter should be made with lopping shears or a pruning saw. Hedge shears should be used for shaping hedges only. Do not use shears to prune a tree. Whatever tool you use, make sure it is kept clean and sharp.

Establishing a Strong Scaffold Structure

A good structure of primary branches should be established while the tree is young. These limbs, called scaffold branches, are a mature tree's framework. Properly trained young trees will develop a strong structure that requires less corrective pruning as they mature. The goal in training young trees is to establish a strong, central trunk with sturdy, well-spaced branches. This mimics tree growth in forest settings where outward branching is limited by neighboring trees. Some tree species develop some or all these characteristics naturally when grown openly in an urban or park setting. Others require more frequent attention.

Trunk Development

For most young trees, maintain a single dominant leader growing upward. Do not prune back the tip of this leader or allow secondary branches to outgrow the main leader.

Sometimes, a tree will develop double leaders known as codominant stems. Codominant stems can lead to structural weaknesses, so it is best to remove or shorten one of the stems while the tree is young. A tree's secondary branches contribute to the development of a sturdy, well-tapered trunk. When numerous branches are being removed, it is preferable to retain some, at least temporarily, to promote trunk diameter growth.

Permanent Branch Selection

Most of the branches present on a young tree at planting will be pruned away at maturity to provide clearance for mowing, pedestrians, and/ or vehicle traffic. The height of the lowest permanent branch is determined by the tree's intended function and location in the landscape. The road side of a street tree may be raised to 16 feet to accommodate traffic. In most other situations, 8 feet of clearance is sufficient. Trees used as screens or wind breaks, however, usually branch low to the ground. Sufficient branch spacing and balance, both vertically and radially, is important. The space between permanent branches should be approximately 3 percent of the tree's eventual height. Beyond spacing, the strength of branch structure depends on the relative size of the branches and branch angles. Branches similar in diameter to the trunk or limb from which they arise are more prone to failure than those smaller in diameter. Narrow angles of attachment or tight crotching can enclose bark within a branch union. Such growth is called included bark, a condition that weakens the branch attachment and may lead to failure when the tree matures. Branches with weak attachments should be pruned while still

Adoptable Pets of the Month...

Sassy | Female | 1 Year Old

"Sassy, but classy" is my motto. I'm actually quite refined. Almost everything you need to know about me is in my sweet, sweet face. I come equipped with patience, manners and goofs. I've been known to be quite the "Mama Bear" to many a puppy that I've met. I've been picky about some friends (aren't we all a bit?) but I seem to like most other refined canine companions. Count me out of canoodling with any cats though, OK? To know me is to love me. Once you do, you'll wonder where I've been all your life. Call NAHS to set up an appointment snuggle with The Sass.

Tigger | Female | 13 Years Old

I am a quiet and gentle kitty looking for a quiet home to spend my golden years. I can be a little shy in new situations, but you will see that I am a super sweet girl once I feel comfortable and safe. I enjoy human company and will always be close by. I am a lap kitty but I am not necessarily bold enough to invite myself onto your lap so I might wait for you to put me there. I really enjoy being brushed and appreciate the help with keeping my coat soft and shiny. So if you are looking for an affectionate kitty to keep you company, please make an appointment to meet me...I really would like a home to call my own again.
